Seventeen years I have been trying to figure out where I belong. It's a big step for me to say that I have gotten this far; nonetheless with my Lord and Savior guiding me through every step of the way. I have lived somewhat of an uprooted life, moving every now and again and going from school to school. I am more than lucky to have found the advantages of homeschool and the benefits of being raised a Christian with my two brothers and my two sisters. My plans for the future, as of now, are to take life one day at a time and to make the most of it.

"Trust in the LORD with all your heart and lean not on your own understanding; in all your ways acknowledge him, and he will make your paths straight." Proverbs 3:5-6 (NIV)

God, family, friends, music, health—all of these things mean so much to me. Growing up as the second child in a wonderful military family, there have been many opportunities for growth together and also in my own heart. The Lord has continually displayed His faithfulness! I am so thankful to be graduating. I hope to continue learning about health in this next year and pursue missions wherever the Lord will have me to go.

"For God gave us a Spirit who produces not timidity, but power, love, and self-discipline." 2 Timothy 1:7 (The Complete Jewish Bible)

Looking back on the many years I was homeschooled, I realize how much of a blessing they've been and how much they shaped who I've become. I am so thankful for the time and effort my parents invested in me and the way they disciplined me over the years. I am currently enrolled in both Pikes Peak Community College and University of Colorado at Colorado Springs, and I am investigating Oral Roberts University where I plan on pursuing a degree in computer programming/software development or computer information technology. I can't wait to see where God is going to lead me and how he will use me as he walks me through these next years of my life.

I was born in Sheridan, Wyoming. Our family moved a lot, but we settled down eight years ago on an airpark and love it. God has blessed me with amazing parents and a younger sister. I've homeschooled since third grade. I love horses and have been riding since I was eight. Art fascinates me. I want to study photography and graphic design. For college I'm planning to attend Pikes Peak Community College then Colorado State University. I'm lovin' life and so excited to learn what God has for me!

"Don't let anyone look down on you because you are young, but set an example for the believers in speech, in life, in love, in faith and in purity." 1 Timothy 4:12 (NIV)
